WORLD CONFERENCE ON DROWNING PREVENTION

Friday 13th May 2011

Lifeguarding Services Australia CEO Stan Wall attended the World Conference on Drowning Prevention held in Da Nang, Vietnam from the 10th to the 13th of May 2011.

This conference brought together 400 of the worlds leading water safety professionals, researchers and volunteer organisations from over 50 countries to look at water safety initiatives and new research in the field of water safety and drowning prevention.

Lifeguarding Services Australia CEO said "...Previous conferences such as the World Water Safety Conference held in Porto, Portugal in 2007 set the framework for this conference, this is an exciting time for the fields of drowning prevention and lifeguarding. This new research validates the importance of having lifeguards and good education systems in place that do in fact reduce drowning".

Lifeguarding Services Australia is committed to drowning prevention and aquatic safety and applaud the work conducted in the past 4 years by the International Life Saving Federation, the World Health Organisation WHO and other NGOs showing we can make a difference.
